

Nicolaos E. Madias, M.D.

Dr. Nicolaos E. Madias is a faculty member of the Division of Nephrology, Department of Medicine, St. Elizabeth's Medical Center and Maurice S. Segal, M.D. Chair in Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine, Boston, Massachusetts, USA. He also serves as Academic Dean of Tufts University School of Medicine at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center.

A graduate of the Athens University School of Medicine, Dr. Madias was the recipient of a State Scholarship of Academic Excellence throughout his medical studies. He completed his training in Internal Medicine at the Waltham-Weston Medical Center and St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Boston, and a clinical and research fellowship in Nephrology at Tufts-New England Medical Center (T-NEMC), the principal teaching hospital of Tufts University School of Medicine. He joined the staff of the Division of Nephrology at T-NEMC in 1976 and served as Director of the Hypertension Clinic and Director of Research. In 1982, he became Chief of the Division of Nephrology at T-NEMC, a position he held until 1999.

Dr. Madias was first appointed to the faculty at Tufts University School of Medicine in 1976. A Professor of Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine since 1988, Dr. Madias holds the Maurice S. Segal, M.D. Chair in Medicine (2004-present). He has served as Executive Academic Dean (8/15/99-1/31/04) and Dean ad interim (1/1/03-11/1/03) at Tufts University School of Medicine; Chairman of the Department of Medicine at St. Elizabeth's Medical Center (2004-2015); and Chief Academic Officer at the Caritas Christi Health Care System (2004-2010).

His research interests center in the areas of acid-base and electrolyte physiology and pathophysiology, as well as the pathophysiology and treatment of hypertensive disorders. Dr. Madias is the author of over 160 refereed papers and over 80 reviews, book chapters, books, etc. His research studies have been funded by the National Institutes of Health (USA), the American Heart Association, and various foundations.

Dr. Madias has served as an Established Investigator of the American Heart Association and member of the Internal Medicine and Nephrology Boards of the American Board of Internal Medicine. He is a member of numerous scientific societies and editorial boards of professional publications, and served as co-editor of the Nephrology Forum of Kidney International, the official journal of the International Society of Nephrology (1982-2005). He is the recipient of many awards and honors, including the Distinguished Faculty Award and several Citations for Excellence in Teaching from Tufts University School of Medicine. He has served as visiting professor and invited lecturer at numerous institutions and scientific forums in the USA and abroad. He has trained a large number of nephrologists, many of who have attained positions of prominence worldwide. In 2019, he was elected corresponding member of the Academy of Athens.